

Flagging People for Medication Review.

It's likely that one in two people you care for take at least one medication that may do more harm than good, causing serious risks, including falls, fractures, and hospitalizations.

Spot the signs and flag possible medication-related side effects with your healthcare team in the people you care for.

Your voice matters in making a difference.

Spot a change (new, worse or bothersome) in the people you care for.

Flag your concerns with nursing staff that may prompt a medication review with a pharmacist or doctor.

Follow-up with nursing staff on resident outcomes.

What is a medication review?

A careful review of a resident's medication involving the entire circle of care, including doctors, pharmacists, nurses, personal support workers, and family, to help make the best and safest medication decisions.

Supported By:

LOGO HERE

LOGO HERE

*This is a draft document, please contact Barbara Farrell, bfarrell@bruyere.org or Lisa McCarthy, lisa.mccarthy@utoronto.ca for more information*